

A Workshop at Rice University

How Perception Makes Things Available for Thought

Saturday November 9, 2013

Schedule:

10a-12p:

Imogen Dickie

University of Toronto

“How attentional links with objects enable ‘that’ thoughts”

12p-1:30p: lunch break

1:30p-3:30p:

Adam Pautz

University of Texas, Austin

“How does consciousness ground thought?”

3:30p-4p: Coffee

4p-6p:

Jeff Speaks

University of Notre Dame

“Perceptual content and the explanatory role of experience”

Pre-Workshop Meeting of the Mind & Perception Reading Group:

Friday November 8, 2013

4p-6p:

Indrek Reiland

University of Southern California

“Experiences, Sensings, and Seemings”

Location:

Humanities Building, Room 227

6100 S. Main St

Houston 77005

Contact:

Please email Mike Barkasi at mtb2@rice.edu to RSVP for complimentary lunch or for further information.

Web:

philevents.org/event/show/11851

mindandperception.blogs.rice.edu

Sponsors:

The Senses Project at Rice

HRC Mind & Perception Workshop

Department of Philosophy, Rice University